Ten Thousand Road Maps To Be Distributed

Ten thousand road maps directing tourists to Route 17 will be distributed during May through the New England States and the Middle West by the Liberty Highway Route 17 Association.

The maps will be part of a folder describing the advantages of the Liberty Highway as a route between East and West across New York State. The folder will be illustrated with photographs of the historic and scenic points on the tour with descriptions of the more important spots. The contemplated program of the association calls for the distribution of 50,000 of the folders and maps during the coming tourist season.

This project is one of several activities being arranged to attract tourists to Route 17. The association is composed of gasoline dealers, restaurant proprietors, hotel managers and other business men in the communities located on the Liberty Highway.

Increased tourist traffic is expected to bring thousands of dollars into the coffers of gasoline stations, garages, restaurants and hotels on Route 17 this summer. Woodhull Entry Pulls Abreast

Big Word Derby Goes Into Tie As Another 53-Letter Word Comes in From Up the Valley — Early Pace Setter Fails to Retaliate With Expected Sprint — Two Weeks Remain.

Another fifty-three letter word, sent in by "Woodhullite' 'ties up the ADVERTIZER Big Word Derby as this issue goes to press. More power to Woodhull. Those folks from up the valley have the determination not to be outdone. Here is what one of them sends in:

Addison Advertiser,
Dear Editor:

I have been planning to "dig up" a specimen for the Big Word Derby and had found one of 53 letters; but before I had got around to send it in, someone else, strange to say, has sent in one of exactly equal length. This is my word:

Dimethylphenylammoniumchloriidedioxyphenoxazincarbonic.

This is the name for a brown lusterless, crystalline powder or paste and is a coloring material, the common name being "parme violet".

Anyway, this ties the race and I think it doubtful if anything longer can be found. A noticeable feature of the whole thing is that all o f these long words so far presented are, with one exception, from the science of chemisty. It happens that I, too, am somewhat of a student of this subject. But where are all the students of botany, geology, pathology, etc? Are they dead or just sleeping?

Yours truly,
WOODHULLITE

But two weeks remain before the big Derby heads into the home stretch. Emory H. Chase, who was setting the pace a fortnight ago, has failed to show fight in the last two laps and he steps complacently along five letters to the rear of the leaders. Many followers of the Big Derby are keeping an eye on Emory, nevertheless, expecting a burst of speed at a strategical moment. Or perhaps it's true that the Goodhue representative has given his best and one of the dark horses will be declared the winner. The next two weeks will tell and to the winner will go a year's subscription to the ADVERTIZER.

Addison Firemen Plan Fair And Carnival To Finance Preparations For Big NY-Penn Convention

Fair Dates Set For May 28th - June 1st—J. M. O'Keefe and L. E. Handy Head General Committee—Convention in August Expected to Attract Several Thousand People From Southern New York and Northern Pennsylvania.

Addison firemen are planning a fair and carnival to be held May 28th to June 1st, as a means of raising funds with which to finance the forthcoming first annual convention of the NY-PENN Firemens' Association. The convention will be held in Addison early in August.

Committee to have charge of the fair have been announced as follows: general chairman, John M. O'Keefe, L. E. Handy; advertising committee, Eugene Wade, chairman; ticket committee, Floyd Gillespie, chairman, Rolland Hadlock and Theodore Laffkas; decorating committee, Dixon Curtis, chairman, Francis Hill and James Coakley. The executive committee will consist of the various committee chairmen with L. E. Handy acting as treasurer and Luke Brown as secretary.

The firemens' convention to be held here in August is expected to attract thousands of people from Chemung and Steuben counties in New York and from Potter and Tioga counties in Pennsylvania. The NY-PENN organization was formed several months upon a suggestion by John M. O'Keefe, chief of the Addison fire department, who urged the fire companies of neighboring counties revive the practice of getting together at periodic intervals, thus affording the opportunity of social contact and of profiting by the exchange of ideas. Several preliminary meetings held in Addison during the formative period of the organization and it was in deference to the initiative of Chief O'Keefe and the prominent part which he and others of the Addison firemen played in bringing the NY-PENN organization into being that the honor of holding the first convention was accorded to Addison.

Officers of the NY-PENN association are: president, John W. Kennedy, Avoca; secretary, Rolland C. Kennedy, Avoca; treasurer, J. W. McCarthy, Corning; vice-presidents, John M. O'Keefe, of Addison, representing Steuben county, Ray Call of Chemung to represent Chemung county, A. R. Rugaber to represent Tioga county and R. Kenneally to represent Potter county. Communities represented in the association include, among others, Addison, Avoca, Canisteo, Painted Post, Elmira Heights, Savona, Elkland, Westfield, Wellsboro and Coudersport. It is also expected that Hammondsport, Wayland, Big Flats, Horseheads, Atlanta, Arkport, Bath, Corning, Prattsburg, Galeton, Mansfield, Blossburg, Knoxville, Tioga and Lawrenceville will be included.

The carnival committee is depending upon generous support of the public during the several days of the fair and carnival to provide the funds necessary for a fitting reception to the several hundred firemen who will be the guests of Addison on the big convention day.

THE WHITE FLAG

When individuals have dared criticize NRA, or any other phase of the New Deal they have been accused by the Washington crowd of being swayed by political prejudice. But when the Brookings Institute brings in an adverse report on NRA, as it did a few days ago, it is a horse of a different color. New Dealers may growl, but the public is not likely to believe this report was influenced by partisan motives.

Excerpts of the Brookings report condemned NRA in no uncertain terms as follows: ". . . Not only did the program fail to work out as planned, but the plan itself was in our judgment a mistaken one. The conditions were not propitious for a sizable expansion of wages at the expense of profits. If this had occurred it would probably have frozen up more purchasing power than it released . . .

"In trying to raise the real purchasing power of the nation by boosting costs and prices, the NRA put the cart before the horse. Raising the prices either of labor or goods is not the way to get a larger volume purchased . . . The conclusion indicated by this resume is that the NRA on the whole retarded recovery . . . We do not feel justified in stating our own judgment more definitely than to say that the retarding effect of NRA has been substantial . . ."

The Brookings Institute is an independent Washington foundation which makes economic studies and researches. The authors were among the outstanding economists of the land, such as George Terborgh, a member of the Federal Reserve Board staff. Thy were unquestionably influenced only by their sound judgment, and the report must be accepted as reflecting, at least, the candid opinion of these men.

Man after man, judge after judge, group after group of substantial American citizens is showing the good sense of condemning this entirely un-American organization. Last week the highest court in this state declared the state NRA enforcement law was "unconstitutional", adding the judgment of another tribunal to the mounting list of firm expressions of public opinion that this New Deal phantasy must go.

A short time ago the government started to appeal an adverse decision on NRA to the U. S. Supreme Court—the famous lumber case—but eventually withdrew the complaint. Those who desire to see this law put to an acid test in the Supreme Court, were disappointed to see the Administration run up the white flag at this juncture. Many expressed the opinion the Attorney General did not care to take this case into courts. This is apparently true, but there is more to this incident than the temporary running up of a white flag. The New Dealers are certainly aware many phases of NRA are grossly unconstitutional. They know an adverse decision right now might influence Congress to throw the whole mess out of the window. What the New Dealers wish to see come to pass is a modified NRA law enacted by Congress prior to June 16, the expiration day of the old act. Setting up a new legislative NRA would automatically bring to an end the pending cases concerning the constitutionality of NRA, create months of delay while new issues are being fought through the lower courts.

Running away may give the New Dealers a longer lease of life than if they stood ground and fought their battles, but it does not elevate them in the public esteem. If NRA is constitutionally right, as the founders have tried to make us believe in endless avenues of propaganda, then why not take it through court in a case which will test its merits without question? If it is so wrong the progenitors know the whole fabric of the law is illegal, why try to crowd it further down our throats? They could at least be honest.

HONORS FOR NEWSPAPERMEN

Editors of country newspapers throughout the United States are showing keen interest in the recognition which is being given to rural correspondents in a nation-wide contest inaugurated by a national farm magazine, "The Country Home". A prize of $50 in cash is to be given to the rural news correspondent who published the most interesting article during the 1930's.

Scribes, their friends and their editors are alike invited to send in entries. Only printed news and comment will be judged.

Wheeler McMillen, editor of the magazine which is making the offer, says in his preliminary statement: "The country correspondent is the forgotten man of American letters. The novelist, the poet, the playwright, the historian, the reporter for the metropolitan newspaper, these have prizes to which they may aspire. But the country correspondent has had no such opportunity for recognition. We promise to give it to him.

"We offer this prize, for the best example of country correspondence submitted to us, in the belief that such recognition is more than merited. We do not expect to unearth any great author, although many great authors have come from the ranks of the country correspondents. But we do expect to call greater attention than ever before to the excellent writing that comes from the farms and small towns, and is published in the local columns of the country newspapers. It is a simple, honest sort of writing, reflecting the wholesome flavor of life in the country.

"In our columns we have printed, for years, many contributions from readers who are also correspondents for their local papers. Thus we know from our own experience, as well as from reading hundreds of country newspapers, that some of the best writing being done today is by these scribes. At its best, it is the work of born writers and understanding reporters."

NEW MEANING FOR MEMORIAL DAY

Perhaps this old word is not as hard-boiled as the past few years have led us to suppose. Proof that sentiment still flourishes is provided by recent appeals for a wider and more intimate observance of Memorial Day.

A Cincinnati organization suggests that a tribute of honor be paid on the coming holiday not only to the heroes of war but to "heroes of peace" — scientists, explorers, writers, statesmen and others who contributed to our country on the battlefields of everyday life.

The Memorial Extension Commission, with headquarters in New York, supports this idea and carries it even further. It urges Americans to visit their private shrines—the graves of their beloved friends and relatives — as well as public shrines. Other religious, patriotic and historical groups agree that the significance of Memorial Day should be deepened.

We are not ancestor worshipers. Yet we realize that reverence for the dead is an index to a nation's moral and spiritual fibre. The out-of-sight-out-of-mind tendency in modern times is a symptom of shallowness, whether it shows itself in relation to national celebrities or departed members of the individual family.

A tribute of affection for the dead is useful and ennobling to the living. It symbolizes the continuity of human existence, the sanctity of tradition, the moral grandeur of family loyalty.

The movement for enlarging the meaning of Memorial Day includes a plea that the sites of local historical events and the final resting places of local celebrities should be fittingly marked and memorialized. The memory, too, of near and dear ones who have passed into the Great Beyond should be kept fresh.

No. sentiment is still with us and will always be. On Memorial Day it can find fitting expression in homage at the graves of heroes of war and peace and at the graves of beloved friends and relatives.

CONSTRUCTIVE CRITICISM

A call to the nation to rally around sound methods of restoring prosperity and to assert "the courage to reverse our position" and recognize America's "experimental errors in many of the policies that we have patriotically accepted" was the thesis of the message by Alfred P. Sloan, president of General Motors. in a nationwide address a few evenings ago.

Senator Copeland isn't happy over the fact that his food and drug bill has been sent back to a Senate committee, from whence it may never return. Evidently, according to the best Washington opinions, the original Wiley "pure food law" enacted years ago is still basically correct. But the experimental Agricultural Department with Dr. Tugwell prescribing in this instance, is never satisfied with changes—they want new deals for everything; pale pills for pale people, more sugar in the breakfast foods and a mixture of peelings of citrus fruits in the marmalade. Some wise legislator may find the right aspirin, or laxative, which seems to be all the food and drug bill needs.

WHEN SPRING IS IN THE AIR

This is the time of year when the seasonal "disease", spring fever, runs its course. One of its more common manifestations is an urge to clean up one's property, in order to get rid of winter's accumulation of rubbish, both indoors and out.

The attic is one of the places in the home where odds and ends accumulate—and it is also one of the commonest starting places for residential fires. That accumulation of ancient newspapers—those dog-eared magazines — those old clothes which you'll never wear again — that broken down furniture, all offer an invitation to fire. Start your clean-up campaign by giving these cast-offs to the needy, either directly or through some local charitable organization, where they can give comfort and use again. Then burn the sheer rubbish—and be sure to accomplish that latter task on a windless day, with the aid of an incinerator.

CONDEMNING THE LAND

If all the land in the United States that Washington bureaus have wanted to vacate on account of droughts, dust storms, too much forests and too wide prairies, had been scrapped there wouldn't be much agricultural land in production throughout the United States.

solved. Some of the enemies of the law have fallen before federal guns, some executed, some have taken their own lives and a number have been given life sentences. Speaking before a group og New England Republicans this week, Theodore Roosevelt, son of the late President, expressed the belief "large amounts of the $4,880,000,000 work relief fund will be used for campaign purposes. He based his remarks, in part on the assertion "In Maine the present Democratic governor campaigned for reelection with the statement that unless he was re-elected Maine would not continue to get the federal funds she had been receiving."

The Crisis Over Cotton

By MARK SULLIVAN

THE condition which newspaper dispatches describe, accurately, as "the cotton crisis" is at a point where something must break or be done. Either the Administration must take a step backward from A. A. A., or it must go forward, adding another to the body of binding restrictions which triple A already is.

More than cotton is involved and more than triple A. The whole conception of the New Deal, of "national planning," is involved. Within a short time will be decided whether we shall begin to abandon "national planning" or go farther and farther into it. For understanding of the present situation an extremely brief and necessarily incomplete statement is desirable.

The situation begins with a policy laid down by Mr. Roosevelt in his campaign for the Presidency. On September 14, 1932, at Topeka, Kan., he said: "We must have . . . national planning in agriculture." . . . Then on March 16, 1933, Mr. Roosevelt, at that time less than two weeks in office, sent to Congress the bill for farm relief. In his message accompanying the bill Mr. Roosevelt said to Congress:

"I tell you frankly that it is a new and untrod path. . . . If a fair administrative trial of it is made and it does not produce the hoped-for results, I shall be the first to acknowledge it and advise you."

The bill was passed and the Agricultural Adjustment Administration was set up. The first farm commodity dealt with was cotton.

Farmers were paid to plow under one acre out of every four that had been planted. For the next season, farmers were paid to plant less acreage than they had been planting.

Farmers were guaranteed a price for cotton. The guaranty takes this form: The government lends 12 cents a pound on cotton, and promises to take the cotton off the farmer's hands if the price is less than 12 cents when the loan comes due.

To procure the money paid to the farmer, the Administration put a "processing tax" of 4.2 cents a pound on cotton, to be paid by all manufacturers of cotton goods.

As respects the farmer, all these steps were voluntary. He could take the money from the Administration and reduce his crop, or he could reject the money and plant as much as he pleased. But all the voluntary steps turned out to be not enough. Not as much reduction was accomplished as the Administration had planned. Thereupon the reduction was made compulsory.

As a consequence of these steps, several conditions have arisen. The high price of American cotton, about 12 cents a pound, has caused foreign manufacturers to buy from other countries.

It should be said that Secretary Wallace claims the diminished sale of American cotton abroad is not wholly due to triple A. But it should also be said that disinterested authorities assert strongly and generally that triple A is the cause.

As another consequence, flowing from the artificial high price and the processing tax, the cost of manufactured cotton goods in America, clothing or what not, has increased. Because of the increase in cost, consumers are buying less. Because consumers buy less, mills are closing down partly or wholly, and unemployment results.

As another consequence, farm tenants and share-croppers in the South, not needed when the crop is restricted, are thrown on relief.

As yet another consequence, Japan, able to buy foreign-raised cotton at a lower price than America, is able to undersell American cotton manufacturers in America. This adds another to the causes of unemployment.

The sum of all these conditions composes the cotton crisis. There is outcry from practically every interest affected by cotton. The remedies suggested are too many to enumerate here. Most of the possible remedies fall under one of two heads. The ways out are either retreat from triple A or else greater and greater control of cotton raising, of dealing in cotton and of cotton manufacture.

The evident disposition of the Administration is to go on. There is no sign of Mr. Roosevelt taking advantage of his suggestion of two years ago, that if triple A should not succeed he would acknowledge the failure.

Stresa and Geneva

By WALTER LIPPMANN

THE public announcements from Stresa reflect faithfully the present situation in Europe. They were vague, because no one knows precisely when the danger may come to a head. They were noncommittal, because no great power in Europe today has a government which knows how far it can commit its people. They were subject to several interpretations, because within each nation concerned and among the nations at the conference there are wide divergences of opinion and of interest. These things are true not only of Britain, France and Italy, who were represented at Stresa, but of Germany, Russia, Poland and the Little Entente, who were absent.

It is by this very uncertainty that for the time being the peace of Europe is being preserved. The peace does not rest upon a feeling of security derived from contentment and good will. It does not rest upon the settlement or a prospect of the settlement of the vital issues that divide the vanquished from the victors. It does not rest upon respect for law and order or upon a collective system capable of enforcing law and order. It does not rest upon a balance of power or upon overwhelmingly superior power prepared to hold the peace. It rests upon the fact that nobody is ready to challenge any one else because no one feels sure that his armaments are ready, that his people are prepared to march, or that his alliances are in order.

It is true that all the governments, including the German, profess to be working for peace. And in one sense, a very Pickwickian, that is true. All of them would rather gain their purposes without war than by war. But the Germans will not renounce their purpose to dominate Central Europe and the lands to the east of them, and the former allies will not surrender to Germany an imperial domain. What is more, the Germans know this and the Allies know it. Therefore, the German peace program is to become so strong that no one will dare to resist Germany. The Allied peace program is to become so strong that the Germans will not dare to move.

The German contribution to peace will, therefore, consist in the development of the greatest army in Europe, in subversive propaganda and intrigue in Austria and elsewhere along the line of her intended conquests, and of diplomatic maneuvers designed to prevent the former Allies from reconstructing their alliance. The French, Italian and Russian contributions to peace will consist in developing their military forces, in fitting them together for some sort of unified action, in countering the German penetration of Central Europe, and in persuading and maneuvering to bring Great Britain into the coalition. The British contribution will consist in strengthening her forces, and, by refraining from making full commitments to any one, in preserving precariously a balance of power.

All but Britain and to some extent Poland, which is in an uncomfortable squeeze, are working for peace on their own terms. Their method is to prepare for war.

The course of events is likely to be determined by the relative rate of rearmament, by the rate at which alliances are made or fail to be made, by accidents like assassinations or palace revolutions, and by political changes in the various countries dictated by economic and social pressure.

Can Schacht find the materials not only for the whole German rearmament, but to sustain a war in which Germany would almost surely be blockaded? Can Hitler hold the Nazis and himself in check until Schacht and the army chieftains say they are ready?

Can France make an alliance with Communist Russia as she made one with Czarist Russia? Can Flandin and Laval survive politically the impending breakdown of the gold block and the intensified deflation in France? Will the French people go to war if the attack is on Austria or Lithuania?

Is the Russian army dependable as a military force outside of Russia? Is the Russian planned economy well enough planned to supply an army? Is Russia free to fight in Europe without being attacked in Asia?

Who is going to be in power in Great Britain a year hence? Will the isolationists control British policy? Or will they merely influence it enough to repeat 1914, and put Britain in a position where she cannot use her power to prevent war though she is inextricably entangled if war comes?

These are the few of the many deep uncertainties in Europe today, and they help to explain the hesitations and the ambiguities of the public announcements and of public policy.

G. O. P. Launches Drive To Recapture New York Assembly

The Republican drive to recapture the Assembly is on! The G. O. P. campaign ship was launched in Richmond County last week by Republican State Chairman Melvin C. Eaton. Completely recovered in health, bronzed, vigorous, and determined to wrest control of the Lower House from the Democrats this fall, Mr. Eaton laid down a blistering attack upon the Roosevelt-Farley-Lehman regime in the nation and in the State.

A testimonial and welcome home dinner, given to Mr. Eaton by the Republican Organization of Richmond County, furnished the opportunity for the State Chairman to fire the opening gun in the campaign. He minced no words in blasting Farley control of the Democratic majority in the State Legislature; he struck hard at the prolonged session, declaring it had cost the taxpayers of the $1,555,225.63; he cited that the public debt of the Federal Government was $28,735,937,507 on April 18th last, declared that Governor Lehman had donned the Roosevelt mantle of "reckless spending." The concluding paragraph of his Richmond County address was significant. He said in part:

"I pledge you we will definitely recapture the Assembly in November. I have taken off my coat, I have rolled up my sleeves and, with health once more restored, will give everything that is within me to the job of revitalizing the Republican Party in this State. Let me add that I was elected State Chairman for two years, and I will continue in that office until my term expires, determined to justify the confidence the Republicans of this State have seen fit to repose in me, and equally determined to blaze a trail of new party victories inthe State."

Eaton To Begin State Tour May 15

Present plans made by Chairman Eaton provide for his leaving on a tour of the State about May 15th. Mr. Eaton will visit each of the counties in turn, conferring with County Chairmen, members of the State Committee, legislators and, as he put it, "with all Republicans who really have something to say." The tour, according to attaches at State Headquarters, will be in the nature of a survey of Republican strength in the State, and will have a very definite bearing on future concentration of effort in counties where Democratic gains were made last year. Mr. Eaton was reported to have been distinctly encouraged by reports given him by Chase Mellen, Jr., who within the last two weeks, visited seven counties in the State. They were Westchester Broome, Tioga, Chemung, Erie, Monroe and Chautauqua. County Chairmen have been notifying Mr. Eaton they will stage meetings, receptions and dinners for him when he visits the various counties.

Additional G. O. P. Activity

Many Republican groups throughout the State are planning to increase the tempo of their activities as a result of the additional impetus given the party in the State. Included in the list of events sheduled are the following:

On May 11th the Assembly Campaign Committee, headed by Minority Leader Ives, will hold a joint meeting in the Hotel Syracuse, Syracuse, with the Campaign Committee of the Republican State Executive Committee. Chairman John R. Crews, Republican Leader of Kings County, will preside at this meeting, arranged to co-ordinate the activities of both committees.

On the same day, Young Republican Clubs of Saratoga County will be host to Republicans of the Fourth Judicial District, at a meeting in Reilly's Lake House, Saratoga Springs, to be featured by addresses by Chase Mellen, Jr., and Senator Joe R. Hanley of Perry, N. Y., and on the same day the Republican women of the Fourth Judicial District will hold a noon meeting at Glens Falls, N. Y., with Senator Hanley also the featured speaker.

The Nominating Committee of the Association of New York State Young Republican Clubs, which committee is composed of President George Sibley, Lewis Killeen, of Schenectady, Chairman of the Board of Directors, and the nine Vice-Presidents, will also meet on May 11th. The Young Republican unit will assemble in Albany to draw up a slate of officers and directors for the ensuing year. The Albany meeting will be a preliminary to the annual convention of the organization to be held June 21st to 23rd, inclusive, at Alexandria Bay.

Republican members of the Legislature are looking forward to their "Legislative Camp Meeting" to be held at Star Lake, N. Y., on June 22nd and 23rd. Assemblyman Maurice Whitney, of Rensselaer County, is Chairman of this Committee, and invitations have been sent to all the Republican members of Assembly, Senate and Congress.

"Politics will be taboo at this 'camp meeting.' declared Mr. Whitney yesterday. "We are going to get the Republican members of the Legislature together for one purpose and that purpose is to know each other better, to have a good time, and to wipe out sectional differances, should any still exist." Mr. Whitney added many acceptances to the "camp meeting" had already been received.

$250,000 Fund Drive Begun in N. Y. County

Following lengthy conferences between officials of the National Republican Committee, the State Committee and the New York County Committee, there has been launched in New York County a drive for $250,000, the money raised to be divided, according to budgeted requirements, between all three units of the Republican Party. The money is being raised through the medium of a newly organized United Republican Finance Committee of New York County, of which Committee Robert H. Thayer, is chairman, Mrs. Roger W. Strauss, co-chairman, and Thomas Hitchcock, Jr., treasurer.

The New York County drive, to be followed, in the near future by similar drives in Westchester, Nassau, Monroe, and certain other counties, is aimed at providing adequate funds to wage a vigorous campaign in the State, and for the purpose of providing National, State and County Committees with needed sinews of war; to regain the Assembly and to elect local city and county officers in the first instance, and to permit the National Committee to wage a vigorous fight for victory in the nation in 1936.

Connecticut Leader Visits Steuben County Housing Project

Miss Edith L. Mason, State Leader of Home Economics Extension work in Connecticut spent Friday April 26th, visiting at the final housing meeting in the communities of Howard and Hammondsport. Miss Mason accompanied Miss Florence E. Wright, State Housing Specialist, who was in the county for checking up living rooms that had been rearranged.

The Steuben County Home Bureau this spring has been carrying on quite an extensive program consisting of living room arrangement which in some communities has been followed by the making of small articles for the living-room and making curtains. The work has been under the direction of Miss Wright and Mrs. Ruth Comstock, another housing specialist.

This has proven to be a very practical project as the rearrangement stresses the use of furinshings already in the home and no suggestions for the purchase of new articles are made unless the homemaker is especially anxious for advice in this respect.

After the living rooms are arranged often-times homemakers discover that some small articles, such as a table mat, a lamp shade, chair protectors, or new cushions for a davenport or sofa are needed and will add greatly to the attractiveness and comfort of the room. Special help is given in making these articles using pieces of material from the scrap bag or dyeing inexpensive material already on hand. The lessons aim to assist women to make their living rooms more comfortable for all members of the family and if they are comfortable they will have that attractive "lived in" appearance.

Friday's meeting was a final check up tour of the living room arranged in the last few weeks. In Hammondsport the group visited the homes of Mrs. Walter Aber, Mrs. H. S. Sirrine, Mrs. F. A. Moore, Mrs. W. E. Hunter, and Mrs. J. C. Freidell. In the afternoon, Miss Wright and Miss Mason were at Howard and visited the homes of Miss Ina Brasted, Mrs. Josie Bennett, Mrs. Howard Hopkins, and Mrs. Fay Bennett.

Bureau Studies Crops, Pastures

Approximately one hundred demonstrations and tests of the various field crops will be conducted by the Steuben County Farm Bureau during the current growing season.

There will be planted about thirty-five oat variety tests in which a new variety, Lenroc, is included. Oats is a staple feed crop of Steuben County and it is the purpose of the tests to compare the yielding quality of the best varieties as compared with native seed stock. Similar demonstrations will be made with barley, oats and peas in mixture. Seventy thousand acres are planted each year to silage corn, which represents an investment of several hundred thousand dollars.

Ten variety tests will be planted to compare the yielding qualities of the various sorts of corn.

Try New Crop

A variety of soybeans which matures grain is being sown on a number of farms in different parts of the county and soybeans are also being planted to determine their hay producing qualities.

A dozen pasture improvement tests, using various mixtures of grasses, and the application of different fertilizers, were set out last fall and early this spring. Approximately a third of the vast area of Steuben County is in permanent pasture, the improvement of which will result in lower feeding costs for dairy farmers.

Test Beans, Potatoes

An extensive potato test, which will include the best of the native strains as well as many imported sorts, will be planted. There will also be several tests of beans for both variety and fertilizer application.

These tests are established to familiarize Steuben County farmers with the various varieties of these crops, and to determine their comparative yielding ability. The location of the plots will be published during the summer, and the yield results at the time of harvest.

Boy Scout Budget Campaign Greatest in Council's History

Campaign Ended April 20th, with Total Well Over $4100 — Addison Contributes $250, Woodhull $55—Council Officials Commend Work of C. M. Salerno and Local Committee.

Announcement was made on Tuesday that the results of the first simultaneous campaign for the budget of the Steuben Area Council, Boy Scouts of America, had exceeded the total of any previous year in the council's history. The total amount pledged during the past six weeks - the campaign ended on April 20 - was well over $4100.

Twenty-three of the participating towns have reported. In a few instances the final total was not stated but the following summary was released by the General Chairman, K. E. Plants of Hornell.

Addison	$250.00
Alfred	120.00
Almond	80.00
Arkport	75.00
Atlanta-No. Cohocton	50.00
Avoca	100.00
Bath	600.00
Campbell	21.00
Canisteo	350.00
Cohocton	170.00
Coopers Plains	25.00
Dansville	800.00
Elkland	390.00
Hammondsport	210.00
Jasper	50.00
Monterey	36.50
Prattsburg	110.00
Pulteney	50.00
Springwater	50.00
Troupsburg	11.00
Wayland	300.00
Westfield	230.00
Woodhull	55.00

Mr. Plants expressed great satisfaction with the work done in Addison under district chairman C. M. Salerno.

In a report to the council, Clyde E. Shults, Chairman of Finance, compared this record result in 1935 with each total for the past five years. These same twenty-five communities paid in others years as follows: 1930—$3,239.25; 1931—$3,531.88; 1932—$2,628.95; 1933—$2,237.53; 1934—$2,749.93.

"This represents a substantial increase over the banner year of 1931 and proves" according to Mr. Shults, "that the simultaneous campaign is more effective from every point of view."

This is the largest total contribution ever made by these communities and compares much more favorably with the two chest cities' contributions. The total subscriptions from Corning and Painted Post; Hornell and North Hornell for the same years have been: 1930—$5,650.67; 1933—$5,360.00; 1934—$7,461.01.

The population of the area is roughly 36,000 in two cities with suburbs, 21,000 in smaller towns and villages, and 40,000 in open country. "This year the towns and villages have demonstrated their interest and support in a magnificent manner" concluded Mr. Shults.

The local solicitation was in charge of a committee of citizens which included Chas. M. Salerno, the Rev. J. V. Axtell, Dr. M. F. Whitmore, Ralph B. Dykins, Elbert D. Crane and Lester Andrews.

Substantial Sum Netted From Silver Tea For Library Benefit

Hon. D. M. Darrin, President of Library Trustees, Commends Legion Auxiliary for Interest and Success in Library Promotion — Interesting Program —Other Organizations Said to Contemplate Events for Like Purpose.

More than one hundred people attended the silver tea yesterday afternoon in the City Hall under auspices of Williams-Greengrass Unit, No. 730, American Legion Auxiliary for the benefit of the Addison Public Library. Approximately twenty-five dollars was realized from the undertaking and it expected that this amount will be augmented by the voluntary contributions of others who for various reasons were unable to attend the tea and who have expressed a desire to assist toward the financial success of the project.

In the recollection of the present library trustees this is the first public appeal for the benefit of the library ever held in Addison. Several other organizations have expressed a tentative intention of sponsoring some event to aid the library in continuing its work and it is probable that the success of yesterday's undertaking will encourage these groups to go forward with their projected plans.

The Auxiliary rooms were attractively decorated for yesterday's event. Ferns, snapdragons, roses, tulips, Easter lillies and other floral pieces were tastefully arranged about the quarters. In fitting remarks, the Honorable Delmar M. Darrin, president of the library trustees, complimented the Auxiliary for the interest and achievements of the organization in behalf of the library. An excellent program was rendered as follows: Piano solo, Miss Betty Perry, accompanied by Miss Knebel; piano solo, Miss Eleanor Hogue; vocal solo, Miss Madeline Short; piano duet, Misses Margaret and Eleanor Hogue; vocal solo, the Rev. J. V. Axtell accompanied by Mrs. Axtell; piano solo, Mrs. Reginald LaBourr; duet, piano and trombone, Willis and Frances Colburn; piano and tuba duet, Willis and Frances Colburn; string instruments, Stanley Ward, Forrest Rouse, Lawrence Benedict, Wyatt Husted and Harold Rice.

Tri-Cos to Oppose Rand Nine Sunday

The Addison Tri-County League nine will oppose the Ingersoll-Rand team in an exhibition game at the Post this Sunday afternoon. It will be the first contest of the season for both aggregations.

Manager John M. O'Keefe, who will direct the plays of the Addison representatives during the coming season, has filed the following eligibility list with league officials: Hewson, Grange, D. Hadlock, Willis, Stowell, LaChance, Hoyt, Kellogg, Hovey, Hopper, R. Hadlock, Laffkas, McDermott, Riffle, Brennan, Boyer, Doddato, Riker, Hibbard, Wade, Finnerty, Tobey, Gilhooley and O'Keefe. When queried regarding the probable line-up of the Addison team when it takes to the field Sunday afternoon, the local mentor, paused refectively, and said, "Rather hard to say at this time. This of course is just an exhibition game and it will afford an opportunity to get a line on just how the boys shape up.

"Prabably Big Mac will start off in the box and Hopper and one or two more will get a chance to show their wares. LaChance and Stowell will divide the work back of the plate. The starting infield is most apt to be Grange at first, Hewson second, Hovey short and Willis third. Outfielders will be too numerous to mention. And of course anything I have just said is altogether tentative. The ultimate line-up is out of the question at this time. But I think we can count on a creditable ball team."

SOUNDINGS TAKEN AT MAIN STREET BRIDGE

Engineers have been engaged during the past two days taking soundings near the Main street bridge over the Canisteo River at Addison. It is said that stone was indicated at a depth of twenty-five feet.

It is understood that the new Main street bridge project will be included by state officials in requesting the allotment for New York State of Federal funds recently voted for work relief. The bridge was taken over by the state highway department several months ago. Approval by Federal authorities is necessary, however, before funds to carry out the project are forthcoming.

COMMUNICATION

Mr. Editor.

Why would it not be a good plan to create a small museum for Addison in which the curious, educational and scientific specimens can be collected and placed permanently not only for residents of the place; but for the information of visitors who come to Addison.

There must be enough of such stuff right now held by different persons here to make a sizable exhibit. Fragmentary of course, but of interest nevertheless. I, myself, have many specimanes — mine are mostly geologic, I admit. But others have things of historic value as well as of ethnological interest and otherwise.

Let the public library be the place for it. It will not need any handling except to lay within show cases. There would be no loaning like books and would be an attraction of great value to the town.

Many of these articles have already served their purpose so far as private ownership is concerned. And in most cases the owners would be glad to turn them over to the use of others. Too valuable to be destroyed, taking up space in private homes with no longer any interest of their owners.

Then after all — We've got to die, sometime. Why not place these things where they will serve others and do some good, at no loss to ourselves.

Now don't all speak at once. But we want at least, to hear from a few who have the interest of the town at heart and want to do something good for other people.

Yours,
Emery H. Chase

Easy Housecleaning

Just Read What An Expert Says

Mr. Tad V. Dexter, Expert House Cleaner, of 1664 Post Street, San Francisco, writes:

"I am asked every day, WHICH IS THE BEST POLISH? I tried them all, importing a few from the Orient. 75 per cent of them left sticky residue; ten per cent more were found undesirable by J. Hill, Chemist. The others were satisfactory when applied, but left a terrible smell after a few days. Finally, we found a polish giving a hard, dry finish, cleaned as well as polished, leaving a pleasant odor—

Dewitt, beginning on the northerly bank of the Chemung River on the line of said fourteen hundred acre tract, running from thence westerly up said river ten (10) chains to the corner of lands now in the occupation of Jacob Wormley; thence north along said Wormley's line one hundred one (101) chains and fifty (50) links to a stake and stones; thence east so far as to come directly north of the northwest corner of the Hammond farm so as to follow down the Hammond line as it now stands between the two farms to the river; from thence up the river to the place of beginning, supposed to contain two hundred (200) acres of land, be the same more or less; being the same premises devised by Nicholas S. Mundy to Simeon Hughson for life and after his death to his son, Frederick W. Hughson, and to Frederick W. Hughson for life, and after his death to the lawful heirs of said Frederick W. Hughson, and being known as the home farm of Nicholas S. Mundy, deceased.

EXCEPTING and RESERVING the lands conveyed to and occupied by the Erie Railroad Company by deed dated the 20th day of August, 1840, and recorded in Chemung County Clerk's Office in Vol. 7 of Deeds, at page 407, containing one and ninety-six hundredths (1.96) acres. ALSO ALL THAT OTHER TRACT OR PARCEL OF LAND, situate in the Town of Corning, County of Steuben and State of New York, bounded and described as follows: Beginning at a point in the western boundary line of the Home Farm belonging to parties of the second part (The Hughsons) at an old oak tree which marks the southeast corner of lands belonging to one Scudder, running thence north eighty-two degrees west nine and forty-eight hundredths (9.48) chains; thence north five degrees east one and twenty-one hundredths (1.21) chains; thence north eighty-two degrees west six and fifteen hundredths (6.15) chains to a point in the east boundary line of the John Burt Farm; thence south six degrees thirty minutes west along the east line of the John Burt property to a point in the south line of the abandoned Chemung Canal Feeder; thence in a southeasterly direction following the southern boundary of the abandoned Chemung Canal Feeder to its intersection with the west line of the Home Farm to parties of the second part; thence in a northerly direction along said west boundary line to the point of beginning, containing altogether about thirty-six (36) acres of land, be the same more or less.

It is the intention and purpose of this deed to correct a deed given by Mary L. Owen and Louise Hughson Way to Frederick W. Hughson by deed dated January 31st, 1900, and recorded in Steuben County Clerk's Office in Volume 262 of Deeds at page 426. The property described herein being a part of the residuary estate of Nicholas S. Mundy whose will was probated in Chemung County October 29th, 1894, and recorded in Chemung Co. Surrogate's Office in Volume 14 of Wills at page 713, and also recorded in the Steuben County Clerk's Office in Volume 332 of Deeds, at page 293, said residuary estate having been willed to Catherine Hughson and Louisa Owen; Catherine Hughson having died leaving a will devising all her property to two grandchildren, Frederick W. Hughson and Louise Hughson Way, party of the first part herein; Louise Owen having died leaving a will devising her residuary estate, including the above described property, to Louise Hughson Way, party of the first part herein, Frederick Hughson having died leaving a will devising properties, including the property herein described, to his three children Simeon M., Mary F., and Herbert B. The property herein described includes not only the property described in the deed given by Mary L. Owen and Louise Hughson Way to Frederick W. Hughson by deed dated January 31st, 1900, and recorded in Steuben County Clerk's office in Volume 262 of deeds at page 426, in which deed the property was erroneously described as bounded on the north by the Chemung Canal Feeder "and" on the south by lands of Edwin Meeks" when the description should have been "on the south by the Chemung Canal Feeder and north by lands of Edwin Meeks", but it also includes the small strip east of such premises once belonging to one Allard and late the property of Nicholas Mundy, and it also includes the land which reverted to Nicholas Mundy or his heirs upon the abandonment of the Chemung Canal Feeder and the highway bounding it on the north.

The premises herein described are shown on a map of lands belonging to the estate of Nicholas Mundy on which the thirty-six acres hereinbefore described are shown as the "Hill Lot", being the same premises which Simeon M. Hughson and wife and Mary F. Hughson by their deed dated the 5th of April, A. D., 1929, and recorded in Chemung and Steuben County Clerk's offices in Deed Book ..... page ..... granted and conveyed all their rights, title and interest unto Herbert B. Hughson and Violet Hughson his wife, in fee.

Knights Pound Out Fifteen Hits To Trounce Elkland 12-2

Hickey Smacks Tremendous Triple to Capture Distance Honors in Opening Game Slugfest — Beers and Matthews Contribute Three Hits Apiece — Flynn, Smith and Matthews Divide Boxwork.

The Addison High School Knights won their third consecutive ball game of the year taking the Elkland High School team into camp on the home field last Friday afternoon 12-2. The Knights took the lead from the first and never let the visitors from the tannery town worry them after the third inning.

All of the available Addison pitching staff saw service in this opening game of the season. Lefty Flynn started on the mound but retired in the fourth with the score 10 to 2 in his favor. Johnny Smith, Soph sensation of one-hit fame, made his debut before the home fans and turned in a creditable performance by keeping Elkland out of scoring position for three innings. He then retired in turn in favor of Matthews, the hard-hitting shortstop, who slings them over the slab in case of need.

Hickey, the Knights big man on the initial sack, lived up to his name of "Babe" by deflecting one of the Elkland heavers fast balls into a lenghty three base hit. Bill Matthews connected every time at bat and two of his three bingles were doubles. Johnny Smith lived down the tradition that a pitcher can't hit by lambasting a double and a single in his two trips to the plate.

Jasper Boasts New Ball Park

The new home of the Jasper Aces, Indian Ball Park, is receiving the final smoothing and is scheduled to be ready for use Sunday, May 12, when the Aces play the season's first game against an opponent yet unnamed. When completed, the new diamond will be one of the best in this section of the country. When the land was first taken over, it was used as a pasture and contained gullies and knolls with an occasional tree. The Aces secured a caterpillar tractor and grading equipment and leveled the knolls and filled the gullies until the new diamond looks smooth as a table top. With the present plans, the entire outfield and infield will remain peeled, which should pave the way for a large number of extra base hits. A small grandstand is to be erected and all automobiles are to be kept out of the range of foul balls and wild pitches. The park was appropriately named the Indian Ball Park in honor of Mr. E. W. Countryman, the gentleman who allowed the Aces to put the diamond on his land.

The Aces will present a considerably revamped line-up when they tee off for the first game. The Drake brothers are to play with Woodhull this year but another brother act has been rigged up with the return of Thomas Woodward from C.C.C.camp. Thomas hopes to outdo his brother Kenneth, who was one of the leading sluggers of the league last year. Another new player will be S. E. Beacom, high school coach who will bolster the infield at second or short and who has done considerable catching. It has been predicted that the Aces will be a far more formidable team this year than they were last.

Knights Lead As Game Ends

With the Knights leading, 2 to 0, and the first of the fifth inning nearly over, a sudden downpour of rain brought Monday's Addison-C. F. A. battle to a sudden and inconclusive ending, much to the disgust of the Addison fans. A loyal retinue of rooters had trailed Coach Hewson's jousters to the Crystal City and confidence in eventual victory mounted as Lefty Flynn added to his strikeout record in successive innings. Lefty whiffed eight of the twelve Gollopin' Blue swatsmiths and nothing resembling a hit was registered off his portside delivery. Brewster, on the mound for C. F. A. sent the Knights down hitless until the fifth when two safeties and two runs were collected just preceeding the cloudburst. The sacks were loaded with Robbins at bat when the rain descended.

Joe E. Brown Opens at Avon Saturday Night

Joe E. Brown is the feature attraction at the Avon Theatre, midnight show Saturday, also Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

This time he appears in a "6-Day Bike Rider" in the First National picture of that title. As a bicycle rider Joe is a regular "fiend", but he wins the race and his girl by the most novel and hilarious fluke imaginable.

Joe starts out as a village cut-up who goes to the big city to show his girl, who has jilted him, and the rest of the neighbors, what a great guy he is. After getting into a terrific battle, landing in jail and being bailed out, he makes a mad rush for the races which have already started.

The race is the big climax to one of the most uproarious comedies in which the wide-mouthed comedian has yet appeared. It is not only filled with riotous situations but is crammed with breath-taking thrills.

An exceptionally talented cast of players have the important roles in support of Joe. Maxine Doyle has the leading feminine role. She is a comparative new-comer to the screen, but an actress of exceptional beauty and talent.

Cortex Finds Slapping Girl Hard Task

In one scene of the Warner Bros. picture, "The Firebird", which comes to the Avon Theatre on Friday and Saturday, Ricardo Cortez was required to slap a woman, and didn't enjoy the task.

Cortez had to hit Dorothy Tree, but he repeatedly ruined things by being too gentlemanly and it was only when Miss Tree assured him that she didn't mind a stinging slap for the sake of the picture, that Cortez managed to enact the scene properly.

"The Firebird" is a thrilling drama, filmed from the Lajos Zilahy play produced on Broadway by Gilbert Miller. The cast includes besides Cortez and Miss Tree, Verree Teasdale, Lionel Atwill, Anita Louise and others. William Dieterle directed it from the screen play by Charles Kenyon.

He is playing also with the Manetto string orchestra in Greenwich Village.
